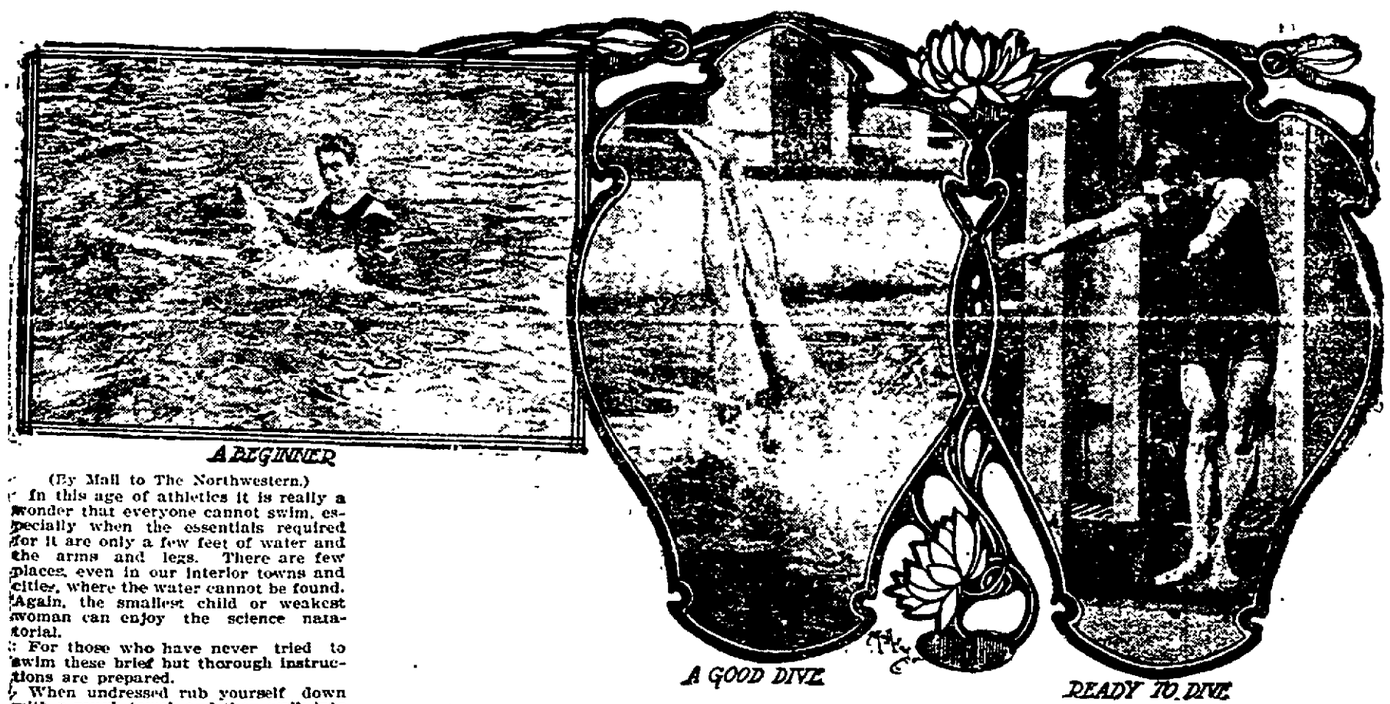
Hints on Swimming—Good Advice to Beginners



Some Suggestions to Those Spending the Summer on Lake Winnebago or Adjoining Water.

(By Mail to The Northwestern.)

In this age of athletics it is really a wonder that everyone cannot swim, especially when the essentials required for it are only a few feet of water and the arms and legs. There are few places, even in our interior towns and cities, where the water cannot be found. Again, the smallest child or weakest woman can enjoy the science natatorial.

For those who have never tried to swim these brief but thorough instructions are prepared.

When undressed rub yourself down with a rough towel, and then walk into the water.

The first thing to be done on entering is to put your head under water, open your eyes and accustom yourself to the look of things under water, which will overcome any fear that you may possess. After this has been done two or three times place any object that is hard and white at the bottom of the water, then try to pick it up, which will necessitate opening the eyes.

When thoroughly accustomed to the water, get an air bladder.

Personally, I think an air bladder is of more assistance in holding a person in the water than a friend, as the bladder keeps one up to a uniform height, whereas when held up by a friend one is apt to either slip, tire or lose patience, and the result is the pupil is unexpectedly forced under the water and is apt to lose confidence in his solely occasioned by so many learning to swim often wonder at the slow progress through the water, which is solely occasioned by so many learning the strokes incorrectly; therefore particular attention should be given to the elementary or initial stages.

In my varied experience I have found that most nervous people gain confidence quicker on the back, as it is not only a more natural position but it is much easier for a beginner to breathe, as so many have the tendency to tightly close the mouth when swimming on the breast.

Start then by lying on the back, either held up by a person or by the aid of an air bladder, straighten yourself out, hold the head way back, the ears being under water. Some persons do not like the water penetrating the ears; to overcome this place a little cotton wool in each ear, then inflate the abdomen, draw your arms up alongside the body and straighten them out in a straight line with the shoulders; then push the arms and hands through the water until the latter touch the legs. After some little practice these movements will come easy.

One great point beginners should always remember—keep the hands and legs under the water. Many beginners get frightened by having so much of the water wash over their faces. This can always be overcome by keeping the hands under the water. When you have mastered these arm movements fairly well commence on the leg strokes. Start with the legs straightened out, the heels together, draw the feet up toward the body, keep the knees well turned out as far as possible. Shoot the legs out wide, then finish the kick by bringing the legs straight together with a snap. This stroke and way of swimming on the back will be found to be not only the easiest but the best, for one can lie on his back and rest by simply stretching out the arms back over the head in a straight line with the body.

For the breast stroke commence by practicing the arm and leg movements on shore. The hands should be brought together to the chest and shot out straight in front then turn the hands flat, palms downward, and bring them straight round in a line with the shoulders; from there bend the elbows back and bring the hands together at the chest. For the leg action lie face downward on a stool, draw the legs up, then kick them out as wide as possible, then bring the legs straight together.

The leg movement is the same as on the back.

Practice the arm strokes first as they are easiest to manage. When you have had a few days' practice, try and swim; commence by bending forward with the hands straight in front of you and give yourself a slight push with your legs, then try and do the movements slowly and do not shorten them.

In diving always be collected and cool when you dive. Have the lungs normal, or rather don't dive with all the air out of them; it is dangerous. Never dive in strange or muddy water.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK—WALL STREET.

New York, July 12.—(Wall Street)—A number of railroad stocks showed small opening gains, but these were yielded in the cases of St. Paul and Missouri Pacific. The most important industrial stocks declined. Rock Island rose 1½ points. Otherwise the changes were very small and the trading dull. Slight changes were made either way in the general list, but the wide fluctuations in specialty stocks confused the sentiment somewhat. Rock Island advanced 4 points to 192 and reacted 2¼. Amalgamated fell a fraction when Anaconda broke 3 points, but Atchison was taken in large blocks at an advance of over a point. Fuller Construction gained 1¼ points and Union Bag lost a point. The market became practically idle before the appearance of the bank statement, but prices hardened on the unexpected increase in surplus reserves. The grangers were principally affected, Missouri Pacific and St. Paul rising about a point over last night and Atchison extending its gain to 1½ points. The closing was quite active and firm.

COMMERCIAL.

CHICAGO—GRAIN GOSSIP.

Chicago, Ill., July 12.—Rains predicted yesterday did not materialize today and as a consequence of the continued fair weather, wheat opened easier with light trade. Cables were somewhat higher, but the foreign markets failed to respond to any appreciable extent to the advance here yesterday. There was considerable changing going on in the pit, traders letting go the nearby deliveries and taking on the deferred futures. September opened ½@⅝c lower at 73⅝@73¾c, but there was a good demand at the top figures and prices advanced to 73¾@74c. Local receipts were 99 cars, with 7 of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 242 cars, making a total for the three points of 341 cars, against 343 cars a year ago. Trading continued light throughout the session within a narrow range and the close was ⅝@¾c lower at 73½@73¾c.

Corn opened somewhat easier on improved weather and trading was light. There was almost nothing doing in the July option, which opened ¼c lower at 85c. Later sales were made at 85c, but shorts appeared not over-anxious to cover. September opened ¼@⅝c lower at 61¾@61¾c. The parties who are on the long side in the July deal are reported again buying September and prices advanced slightly, selling at 61¾. Local receipts are becoming smaller on more favorable weather with 88 cars total. Local inspection today recorded 37 cars with 69 of contract grade. July closed ¾c higher at 86c, while September, after selling up to 62¾@62⅝c closed ¼@¾c lower at 61¾@61⅞c.

There was little doing in oats and prices were easier on better weather and in sympathy with other grains. September opened ⅛@¼c lower at 33⅛@33¼c and with little support the market weakened to 33½c. Local receipts were 115 cars.

Total number of delegates.....1,062
Necessary to choice..... 533

(Special to The Northwestern.)

Milwaukee, Wis., July 12.—The Free Press publishes the above table this morning and says:

Today will see the end of the contest at the primaries for the Republican nomination for governor, but the vote for Governor La Follette's renomination is so overwhelming that after all it was rather a last desperate effort of a few old-time machine leaders, backed up by a few large corporations to recover control of the party, lost two years ago, than a contest in the rank and file of the party.

The result of the caucuses yesterday carried the vote for the governor above 750, and the caucuses still to be held in the five remaining counties today will increase it to about 800 out of a total of 1,065, which comprises the full membership of the state convention.

The caucuses yesterday furnished no comfort for the bolters. Waukesha, with twenty delegates, both districts, was carried for the governor. The only comfort "Long" Jones could find in the returns was that he got the best of it in Waukesha city, where La Follette got only five votes, but there was not much comfort in this when it was known in advance that he must have the city solid to carry the Waukesha city district. And Assemblyman Johnson, "Long" Jones' associate in the bolters' league, was snowed under at Mukwonago, his home.

Then all three districts in Winnebago, the old and once considered impregnable stronghold of the old Republican machine, went solidly for Governor La Follette, an indication of a new order of things there promising an opportunity for the young and virile Republicanism, which has long chafed at the methods of the old-time leaders and its disregard of everybody who would not do their bidding.

Portage and Oneida, both always counted in the sure Stalwart column, repudiated the Milwaukee league as so many other so-called Stalwart counties have done, and their delegates will vote at Madison next week for the governor's renomination.

A dispatch from a trustworthy correspondent at Merrill brings the news that Lincoln county, where the result was in some doubt, was also carried by La Follette.

In more than fifty counties in the state the bolters will not have a vote in next week's convention.

Caucuses will be held today in Juneau, Pierce, Ashland, Florence and Lafayette—which will complete the list.

MONEY FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

It Will Be Afforded By Weyauwega's Last Assessment.

(Special to The Northwestern.)

Weyauwega, Wis., July 12.—The list of assessable property in this village is increased by the last assessment over $140,000, of which $30,000 is for additional real estate values and $110,000 for personal property heretofore unassessed. Upon the same rate of taxation as last year, this increased assessment will pay a tax of $2,100, or sufficient to meet the annual payment of $1,000 for the new school house, $800 interest on the entire school house bond issue and a surplus of $300, so that those parties who so strenuously opposed the building of a new school house for fear of heavy taxes will have less taxes to pay in the future than in the past. All of which shows the prosperity of the village, and indicates the possibility of waterworks, sewerage and a village hall in the not far distant future.

Another matter of interest to the welfare of this village which will be brought to the attention of the next congressman for this district, whoever he may be, is a government appropriation for cleaning out the Waupaca river from its mouth to this village so that small launches may navigate the stream. The Waupaca river is a meandered stream to this point and a few thousand dollars invested in its improvement would be of untold benefit to this village, since there is no prettier place in the state for boating than up and down the Waupaca and Wolf rivers.

Frank Larrabee, a prominent attorney of Minneapolis, has been in town on business. Mr. Larrabee was principal of the local school a number of years ago. Miss F. E. The Misses Hulda and Emma Bauer leave in a few days to visit in Stanley, Wis., and Minneapolis, Minn. Mrs. J. F. Corbett has returned from Phillips, Wis., where she has visited several weeks.
