

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Hear Mary Gordon: Altho I am an old woman I certainly do enjoy your column, and felt that I must write at last I was so glad you gave a Ruined Girl the advice you did. If years ago someone had only told me so, I know my life would have been happier.

I too felt that I must make a clean breast of my past life, before I took my marriage vows.

What good did it do? Absolutely none. For I honestly believe that nine men out of every ten will say that if a girl falls once she will fall again, and she will be accused of making dates and of being untrue simply because the man knew of her fall when a girl.

And now dear "Ruined Girl" let me tell you past experience in telling your past be a lesson to you. Bury it deep in your heart, too deep to be unearthed again.

Ask Christ to forgive the past offense and then do not think of yourself as ruined. Here's hoping you may have a happy future.—One Who Has Been There.

A. There has been a great deal of discussion of the matter of "confession." I have always thought that both man and woman should keep the past to himself. We are always glad to hear from those who have experienced.

Sixteen: If a young man is determined to smoke, all you can do is to make the best of it. In these days, when most young men use tobacco, the girl who adopts an intolerant attitude toward smoking makes herself very unpopular. I would not ask him to quit it, if I were you, but if I thought I couldn't endure it, I would stop seeing him and find some young man who didn't smoke.

Heartbroken Lassie: We all feel regret sometimes for mistakes in judgment. It is by making errors that we learn. Be sure it will turn out for the best in the end. Your lot may seem sad now, but I'm sure that just around the corner there is something bright awaiting you.

You cannot believe it now, but the experience of countless others have proved it. You can help yourself by work, hard work and by ceasing to dwell on your sorrow. Find something to do, something you like. Put your whole heart and soul into it. Resolve to make it a success. Find someone more unfortunate than yourself and help him.

Surely you may call me "mother." I shall be proud to have you for a daughter, proud because you confided in me.

And remember you are so young that some other man is bound to come into your life—some other man you will love much more than you have this one, with a deeper, more understanding affection, because you will be older and also because of this present experience. It is only by such occurrences that we grow into stronger, more understanding women.

Mrs. R. G.: If you know anything the police should know, tell them.

True: If you but stop a moment to think, you can realize what life will mean with that man after marriage, can't you? Whatever you do, remain true to the stand you have taken. You know his arguments are weak, that it is only selfishness that prompts him.

Even apart from the moral side of the matter, any one of a dozen things might happen to prevent your marriage. The very fact of giving him his way would probably kill his respect

LIBERALS CONTROL LEAGUE.

GENEVA Aug. 1.—The fourth annual assembly of the league of nations which will convene at Geneva, September 3, for a month's session will be more pregnant of possibilities than any of the three preceding sessions. The assembly gives every indication of being punctuated through with surprises. Two important changes or developments that have taken place in the league during the past year: The league has now actually passed into the hands and control of the liberals, with a real leader. The league, during the three years of its existence has cut its teeth to an extent where it wants something real to chew on.

SYMPATHY FOR HARDING

Messages From All Over World Received by Mrs. Harding But Will Not Be Given Out.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—Countless telegrams of sympathy and expressing hope for Mr. Harding's quick recovery have been received by the president and Mrs. Harding. None of the messages will be given out for publication nor will even the names of the senders be revealed, it was declared today, because of the wishes of Mrs. Harding.

She has taken the position that publication of those from royalty and from people widely known would be unjust to those more humble. All are appreciated equally, she feels, and must be so treated.

Wells in the greatest petroleum fields. Refineries, storage facilities, and marketing branches in all parts of the world. Huge refineries. Factories for the manufacture of asphalt, roofing, steel barrels, wooden cases, and for cases. Over 5,000 tank cars. A large fleet of tank ships. Deep-water terminals in 25 ports in the United States and Europe. 25,000 employees. Every day 1,000,000 gallons of Texaco Gasoline are consumed.

Stop for Gas at the TEXACO Pump

You'll know that pump by the red star and green "T" the trademark of The Texas Company.

Texaco Gasoline is volatile, and volatility is simply the readiness with which gasoline gives up its power. Texaco gives up its power instantly.

The high volatility of Texaco Gasoline means, mileage goes up; and upkeep goes down. Yes—and you'll get easier starting, quicker pick-up, increased flexibility, better hill work and less shifting with Texaco in the tank.

Drive up to the Texaco pump.

Wherever you see that sign of the red Texaco Star you'll find the same full-powered gas—always volatile—and always uniform. And use Texaco Motor Oil—the clean, clear, golden colored lubricant—light, medium, heavy or extra heavy—there's a grade for every car.
